Mitchell Holds a Conference With the Arrests at Hazleton - Quay Puts

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 15 .- President Mitchell, who hastily summoned District | Heights Improvement Company. Mr. Horo-Presidents Fahey, Duffy and Nichols to him ast evening, held a conference with them this afternoon, but will not say what it was which have agreed to write in a new corabout, whether it related to the Duryea poration, with a capital of $10,000,000, to about, whether it related to the Duryea trouble and the possibility of troops being sent there or whether it was in reference to the prevailing rumor that when J. Pierpont Morgan returns to this country the strikers will send a committee to see him and endeavor to arrange some terms of settlement. Little foundation as the latter hope seems to have, it has spread rapidly. The mining officials of this region, however, says that it is preposterous and that Mr. Morgan will not interfere, that he approved the Riverview and the Hotel Montague the position taken by the coal companies in the first place and that he has not changed to the first place and th

BOB HILLIARD WINS A BET. Former District Attorney McIntyre Pays the Breakfast Check for Three.

SARATOGA, Aug. 15.-This morning A. H. Hummel, former Assistant District Attorney John F. McIntyre and Robert Hilflard, the actor, took breakfast together at the club. The talk drifted from sport to plays and playmaking. Hummel recalled Oscar Hammerstein's feat of composing an opera in twenty-four hours and regarded it as considerable of a mental effort, no matter what the character of the work may have been.

"That wasn't much," said Hilliard. "It was just freak stuff." Well," said McIntyre, "I'll just bet you the breakfast check for us three that you can't write in ten minutes a skit that Hummel will pronounce good English, in which the names of a majority of the horses entered in to-day's races shall be brought into the writing room and went to work, while Hummel held the watch. He won the bet, and here is the creation, the names while Hummel held the watch. He won the bet, and here is the creation, the names in quotations being those of the horses:

"Done," Isaid Hilliard, and he stepped

At Dick Canfield's the other night "Andy Williams," "John A. Scott" and others were drinking "Brandy Smash," and "Burgundy," a jealous old fool, butted in, and on a "Nine Spot" bet the limit. "Andy Williams," a Back Number," laid down, but "Old Hutch" found an "Acefull" and won the pot. Later in the evening he met an "Old Lady" and sprinkled her with "Pure Pepper." A rough-house ensued, during which the poor old dame lost her "Shorthose," She got "Hot" and called in the "Singing Girl," who, though always "Irritable," did her best to "Subdue" the row and suggested that "Old Lady" and "Old Hutch" settle by getting married. The couple agreed. He bought her a "Locket" and a "Medal, and for a "Bridesmaid" they had a "Bright Girl" mamed "Mamie Worth," who had the bad taste to dress in "Scottish Blue" Runor has it that she had been a "King's Favorite" in "Five Nations," but being a "Paristenne," it all went. The knot was tied, and as they danced a "Merry Reel" the "Liberty Chimes" rang out. The whole affair was "Glorious," and they went to live in a "Golden Cottage" on "Virgia Soil" in "Frank McKee."
